WORK PROGRESSES ON FOREST SHELTER BELTS -- Bakinskiy Rabochiy, No 155, 9 Aug 49

The decree on the formation of forest shelter belts calls for the establishment of 50 stepe forestation stations and 200 forest development areas in 1949 and 1950. By the middle of this year, 41 forestation stations and 165 forest development areas had already been organized. The majority of these new forestation stations are located in treeless steppes. The area serviced by each station varies from 15,000 to 30,000 hectares. Stations and development areas are now carrying out large-scale construction of houses, service buildings, and other installations.
